Long before the hour set for the opening of the trial this morning a great crowd besieged the doors of the Hudson county court house in Jersey City. By 11:40 o'clock the jury had been seected and the prosecutor, Mr. Erwin, began his opening address.

The Rev. Mr. Keller is rector of Holw Trinity Mission, Arlington, N. J., and for more than twelve years was chaplain to Bishop Thomas Starkey, of the Protest. ant Episcopal Diocese of Newark. The assault occurred at Beach Street and Midland Avenue, Arlington. Barker shot Keller, one built penetrating his right eye, destroying it and passing through his ose and embedding itself beneath his left eye. Barker then fired three more shots at him, one of which wounded his right hand which he had raised to protect his head. Barker then calmly walked to the Kearney police station and gave himself into custody. Barker declared immediately after the shooting, it was reported, that his only regret was that his aim had not been more certain and that he had failed to end the life of his victim. He believed when he shot the clergyman that he was avenging a terrible wrong, and his counin the central portions of the city. Mr. Keller, when he lay at the point of death a few hours after the shooting, denied Mrs. Barker's accusation. Judge John A. Blair, of the Court of General Sessions, who is trying the case, says that it should end in two or three days. There are many questions which have been asked regarding the case. There is no mystery about the offence charged. Barker has been at large under $5,000 bail, indicted for assault with intent to kill. REWARDS FOR GALLANTRY.
